Dan Cooper reveals the secrets to his success

Earning the title of number one Royal LePage REALTOR® is a coveted position, and one that many aspire to. In a network that boasts some of the industry's finest, it certainly is no small feat. Yet Dan Cooper, a broker with Royal LePage Real Estate Services Ltd., has earned the prestigious title six times since joining the company in 1997, most recently in 2005.

What are the secrets to his success?

"I am extremely passionate about the industry and it is rewarding to see that passion get recognized," said Cooper.

Dan's reputation of integrity and dedication to his clients has contributed to his achievements. A REALTOR® for over 15 years, Dan maintains his status as a top-producer by continually looking for ways in which to grow his business. Most recently, he earned his Luxury Homes designation where he was specially trained to cater to the upscale market.

"I like to put myself in my client's shoes. This enables me to better understand their needs from their perspective," added Cooper. "We continue to represent our clients long after the sale is completed, helping us build long-term relationships."

He is quick to point out that another secret to his success is the contribution and support of his dedicated team. "You can't do it on your own," said Dan.

Along with his dedicated team of professionals, Dan applies his vast knowledge of real estate to the areas of Oakville, Burlington, Mississauga and Milton.
